HOW THINGS LOOK FROM OUR STAND POINT.

The Opinion of The Caucasian and the Opinion of others which we Can Endorse on the Various Topics of the Day.

The earth thrown on the C. F. & Y. V. extension, in McDaniels and Lisbon townships, during the month of April, at 11 cents per cubic yard, amounted to over $7,000. This money was paid by the railroad into the State Treasury. We understand there is about $4,000 clear profit to the State out of this amount. If this is so it is a pity that every convict could not be hired out in the same way, for the Penitentiary itself is not and we think, never has been, self sustaining.

Tomorrow, the 10th inst., is Confederate Memorial, or Decoration day. Appropriate Exercises will be held in numbers of places in this state and over all the South. Thousands sleep in their graves, sacrifices to the Lost Cause, who otherwise would today be moving and potent factors in society, business and politics; and while time has lessened our sorrow, yet it has also thrown a mild halo of heroic renown around the memories of those whose graves we today deck with garlands and flowers.

"M Quad" has completed his write up of North Carolina towns, closing with Charlotte. His parting shot to the farmers is: "When the farmer of North Carolina applies himself and calls intelligence to his aid he will make money. He can't help it. He has a climate unsurpassed in the world, and the soil will respoad tenfold for extra care given it."—New Berne Journal.

"When the farmer," etc? "M Quad" seems to have overlooked the Farmers' Alliance. That is just the object of this organization, it calls the intelligence and experience of the many to the assistance of each member of the order.

The World, that mammoth and enterprising newspaper, appeared on April 30th as Ye World, with type and paper of one hundred years ago. The s's were old fashioned, long style, very much like an f, with a half cross. The word the is represented by the old style ye. This feat was accomplished at an enormous expense and is one of the most striking evidences of the wonderful enterprise of this remarkable newspaper phenomenon. The issue is decidedly unique, and thousands of copies will be preserved as souveniers of the great celebration.

Judge David Schenck, President of the Guilford Battle Ground, said last Saturday that he expected to see two years from then, twenty thousand people on the ground to dedicate the monument of Gen. Greene. We hope that such will be the case, and in addition other fitting monuments will be erected by the same time, especially the one suggested by Vance, on Roanoke Island to mark the landing of Raleigh's colony. Hear what the orator says:

It has long been a matter of reproach that North Carolina has done so little to perpetuate in stone her love for her sages and heroes. The day when the foot of the first Anglo-Saxon was placed upon American soil is known historically, but the spot where the colony of the great and splendid Raleigh landed is unmarked by a single memento. This genesis of the mightiest revolution in the history of nations, was upon North Carolina soil, yet we have left neglected both the time and place.

Nine tenths of the want in this country is due to waste and laziness. A gentleman in Maine recently offered to give one hundred sacks of flour, or one hundred bushels of meal, to any needy, deserving man that did not keep a dog, use tobacco or drink liquor. No one was found who could accept the offer. The great reason why so many people are not comfortable in life is because they are either lazy or wastful. Here is the secret of poverty and the reason for the absence of thrift in most of in most of instances. Investigate and see if this is not true. —Christian Advocate.

THE CONQUERED BANNER.

BY FATHER RYAN.

Furl that banner, for 'tis weary,
Round its staff 'tis drooping dreary;
Furl it, fold it, it is best;
For there's not a man to wave it,
And there's not a sword to save it,
And there's not one left to lave it
In the blood that heroes gave it;
And its foes now scorn and brave it;
Furl it, hide it—let it rest!

Take that banner down; 'tis tattered;
Broken is its shaft and shattered;
And the gallant hosts are scattered
Over whom it floated high.
Oh! 'tis hard for us to fold it;
Hard to think there's none to hold it;
Hard that those who once unrolled it
Now must fold it with a sigh.

Furl that banner! furl it sadly!
Once ten thousand hailed it gladly
And ten thousand wildly madly,
Swore it should forever wave;
Swore that foeman's sword should never
Hearts like theirs entwined dissever,
Till that flag should float forever
O'er their freedom or their grave!

Furl it! for the hands that grasped it,
And the hearts that fondly clasped it,
Cold and dead are lying low;
And that banner—it is trailing!
While around it sounds the wailing
Of its people in their woe.

For, though conquered, they adore it!
Love the cold, dead hands that bore it!
Weep for those who fell before it!
Pardon those who trailed and tore it!
But, oh! how wildly they deplore it,
Now who furl and fold it so.

Furl that banner! True 'tis gory,
Yet 'tis wreathed around with glory,
And 'twill live in song and story.
Though its folds are in the dust;
For its fame on brightest pages,
Penned by poets and by sages,
Shall go sounding down the ages—
Furl its folds though now we must.

Furl that banner softly, slowly!
Treat it gently—it is holy—
For it droops above the dead.
Touch it not—unfold it never,
Let it droop there, furled forever,
For it's people's hopes are dead!

"AT CLINTON."

Under the above caption Mr. John McLaurin, Treasurer of the Wilmington Presbytery, has the following kind words for Clinton and its citizens in the leading editorial of his paper, the Presbyterian, of April the 17th:

At no point within the limits of Wilmington Presoytery could the representatives of its churches expect to receive higher social enjoyment or more generous hospitality than in Clinton, and at no place could they find their expectations more fully realized. To this, those who attended the meeting of the Presbytery that convened in that beautiful town last week will heartily subscribe; and this does no disparagement to the lavish hospitality always and everywhere extended to the Presbytery in its visits to its churches.

Clinton has the reputation afar not only for the beauty of its surroundings, but for its social refinement and free-hearted cordiality and it has well sustained it. It has been thought a restful place, and to our mind this is no detraction from its charms; yet to those who think otherwise it is to be said that there are evidences of push and enterprise. New buildings are to be seen, or buildings in course of erection, and Clinton can boast of the possession of a factory for making of our native woods crates and baskets to carry forth our luscious fruits and toothsome berries to less favored climes. The factory is, we are told, the only one of the kind, south of Petersburg devoted to this special business. To the kindness of Mr. Clute, the foreman, we are indebted to a thorough survey of the premises, but we are not expected to detail them here, interesting as they were. Mr. A. F. Johnson is the proprietor.

The weather during the session of Presbytery was simply charming, and, we may be allowed to say it meekly, the ladies were the same.

And now as to the Presbytery: It met in the Presbyterian church, small, but neat and comfortable, on Wednesday evening the 10th inst.

* * * *

In closing we refer to the fact present to our mind during much of this writing that Rev. Dr. Luther McKinnon, formerly one of the most prominent members of Wilmington Presbytery and beloved pastor of the church at Goldsboro, now resides in Clinton and and had his heart with the brethren, though because of a most serious physical affliction he could not be with them. It was sad to meet Dr. McKinnon, whom we had known from early youth, under circumstances of such distress, yet encouraging and even helpful to see the cheerfulness with which he had resigned himself to the will of the Father, and to note the interest he takes in all that is doing for the pleasure and for the welfare of those both near and far. May the God of all grace sustain him, and the comforting presence of the spirit of Christ abide and continue with him.

THE NEWSPAPER IN SCHOOL.

Never use for school purposes any but the cleanest style of a newspaper. Teach pupils always to avoid reading accounts of murders, suicides, accidents, unless of public natures, gossip. Let your use of the newspapers be such as to teach pupils how important things they may discover therein. Do not use the newspaper merely as a spelling or reading lesson, use it to magnify the best in it, and to establish habits of using it for the best in it.—Warren Winthrop, in School Teacher.

"Old Mr. Skinner is a very charitable man, isn't he?" "Oh yes; of course. But if he ever casts his bread upon the waters he expects it to come back a sardine sandwich."

CENTENNIAL ORATIONS.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW AND EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND TALK.

Chauncey M. Depew's Address at the Sub-Treasury--Cleveland Grows Eloquent at the Banquet.

"We stand to-day upon the dividing line between the first and second century of Constitutional Government. There are no clouds over-head and no convulsions under our feet. We reverently return thanks to Almighty God for the past and with confident and hopeful promise march upon sure ground towards the future. The simple facts of these hundred years paralyze the imagination, and we contemplate the vast accumulations of the century with awe and pride. Our population has grown from four to sixty-five millions. Its centre, moving westward 500 miles since 1789, is eloquent with the founding of cities and the birth of States. New settlements clearing the forests and subduing the prairies, and adding four millions to the few thousands of farms which were the support of Washington's Republic, create one of the great granaries of the world and open exhaustless reservoirs of National wealth.

"The infant industries, which the first act of our first Administration sought to encourage, now give remunerative employment to more people than inhabited the Republic at the beginning of Washington's Presidency. The grand total of their annual output of $7,000,000,000 in value place the United States first among the manufacturing countries of the earth. One-half the total mileage of all the railroads, and one-quarter of all the telegraph lines of the world within our borders, testify to the volume, variety and value of an internal commerce which makes these States, if need be, independent and self-supporting. These hundred years of development under favoring political conditions have brought the sum of our National wealth to a figure which has passed the results of a thousand years for the mother land, herself, otherwise the richest of modern empires.

"During this generation, a civil war of unequalled magnitude caused the expenditure and loss of eight thousand millions of dollars, and killed 600,000 and permanently disabled over a million young men, and yet the impetuous progress of the North and the marvellous industrial development of the new and free South have obliterated the evidences of destruction and made the war a memory, and have stimulated production until our annual surplus nearly equals that of England, France and Germany combined. The teeming millions of Asia till the patient soil, and work the shuttle and loom as their fathers have done for ages; modern Europe has felt the influence and received the benefit of the incalculable multiplication of force by inventive genius since the Napoleonic wars; and yet, only two hundred and sixty-nine years after the little band of Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock, our people numbering less than one-fifteenth of the inhabitants of the globe, do one-third of its mining, one-fourth of its manufacturing, one-fifth of its agriculture, and own one-sixth of its wealth.

This realism of material prosperity, surpassing the wildest creations of the romancers who have astonished and delighted mankind, would be full of danger for the present and menace for the future if the virtue, intelligence and independence of the people were not equal to the wise regulation of its abuses. But following the growth and power of the great factors, whose aggregation of capital made possible the tremendous pace of the settlement of our National domain, the building of our great cities and the opening of the lines of communication which have unified our country and created our resources, have come National and State legislation and supervision. Twenty millions—a vast majority of our people of intelligent age—acknowledging the authority of their several churches, twelve millions of children in the common schools, 345 universities and colleges for the higher education of men and 200 for women, 450 institutions of learning for science, law, medicine and theology, are the despair of the scoffer and the demagogue, and the firm support of civilization and liberty.

Steam and electricity have changed the commerce not only, they have revolutionized also the governments of the world. They have given to the press its power and brought all races and nationalities into touch and sympathy. They have tested and are trying the strength of all systems to stand the strain and conform to the conditions which follow the germinating influences of American democracy. At the time of the inauguration of Washington seven royal families ruled as many kingdoms in Italy, but six of them have seen their thrones overturned and their countries disappear from the map of Europe. Most of the Kings, Princes, Dukes and Margraves of Germany, who reigned despotically and sold their soldiers for foreign service have passed into history, and their heirs have neither prerogatives nor domain. Spain has gone through many violent changes and the permanency of her present government seems to depend upon the feeble life of an infant Prince. France, our ancient friend, with repeated and bloody revolutions, has tried the government of Bourbon and Convention, of Directory and Consulate, of Empire and Citizen King, of hereditary Sovereign and Republic, of Empire, and again Republic. The Hapsburg and the Hohenzollern, after convulsions which have rocked the foundations of their thrones, have been compelled to concede constitutions to their people and to divide with them the arbitrary power wielded so autocratically and brilliantly by Maria Theresa and Frederick the Great. The royal will of George the Third could crowd the American colonies into rebellion, and wage war upon them until they were lost to his kingdom, but the authority of the Crown has devolved upon ministers who hold office subject to the approval of the representatives of the people, and the equal powers of the House of Lords have become vested in the Commons, leaving to the Peers only the shadow of their ancient privileges. But to-day the American people, after all the dazling developements of the century, are still happily living under the Government of Washington. The Constitution during all that period has been amended only upon the lines laid down in the original instrument and in conformity with the recorded opinions of the Fathers. The first great addition was the incorporation of a Bill of Rights, and the last the imbedding into the Constitution of the immortal principle of the Declaration of Independence—of the equality of all men before the law. No crisis has been too perilous for its powers, no evolution too rapid for its adaptation, and no expansion beyond its easy grasp and administration. It has assimilated diverse nationalities with warring traditions, customs, conditions and languages, imbued them with its spirit and won their passionate loyalty and love.

The flower of the youth of the nations of Continental Europe are conscripted from productive industries and drilling in camps. Vast armies stand in battle array along the frontiers, and a Kaiser's whim or a Minister's mistake may precipitate the most destructive war of modern times. Both monarchical and republican governments are seeking safety in the repression and suppression of opposition and criticism. The volcanic forces of democratic aspiration and socialistic revolt are rapidly increasing and threaten peace and security. We turn from these gathering storms to the British Isles and find their people in the throes of a political crisis involving the form and substance of their Government, and their statesmen far from confident that the enfranchised and unprepared masses will wisely use their power.

But for us no army exhausts our resources nor consumes our youth. Our navy must needs increase in order that the protecting flag may follow the expanding commerce, which is to succesfully compete in all the markets of the world. The sun of our destiny is still rising, and its rays illumine vast Territories as yet unoccupied and undeveloped, and which are to be the happy homes of millions of people. The questions which affect the powers of government and the expansion or limitation of the authority of the Federal Constitution are so completely settled and so unanimously approved that our political divisions produce only the healthy antagonism of parties which is necessary for the preservation of liberty. Our institutions furnish the full equipment of shield and spear for the battles of freedom and absolute protection against every danger which threatens the welfare of the people will always be found in the intelligence which appreciates their value and the courage and morality with which their powers are exercised. The spirit of Washington fills the Executive office. Presidents may not rise to the full measure of his greatness, but they must not fall below his standard of public duty and obligation. His life and character, conscientiously studied and thoroughly understood by coming generations, will be for them a liberal education for private life and public station, for citizenship and patriotism, for love and devotion to the Union and Liberty. With their inspiring past and splendid present the people of these United States, heirs of a hundred years marvellously rich in all which adds to the glory and greatness of a nation, with an abiding trust in the stability and elasticity of their Constitution and an abounding faith in themselves, hail the coming century with hope and joy."

AT THE BANQUET AND THE TOAST.

George William Curtis gave the following toast:

Our People of the United States:—Ex-President Cleveland of the United States—Not a mob nor an oligarchy, nor a class; but the great force of American patriotism, conscience, intelligence, energy and industry, the only sure foundation of States, the sole hope of the Republic, of which George Washington and Abraham Lincoln are the trust types in American history.

Ex-President Cleveland responded as follows: "The mention of a people may well suggest sober and impressive reflections. The subject was not beneath the Divine thought when the promise was given to the children of Israel, 'I will take you to me for a people and I will be to you a god.' This idea of Divine Relationship to a people is also recognized in the fervent utterance, 'Yea, happy is that people whose God is the Lord.'

"Wherever human government has been administered in tyranny, in despotism on in oppression there has been found among the governed yearning for a freer condition and the assertion of man's nobility. These are but the faltering steps of human nature in the direction of the freedom which is its birthright, and they presage the struggle of men to become a free people and thus reach the plane of their highest and best aspirations. In this relation and in their cry for freedom, it may be truly said, the voice of the people is the voice of God.

"The influence of these reflections is upon me as I speak of those who after darkness and doubt and struggle, burst forth in the bright light of independence and liberty and became our people—free, determined and confident—challenging the wonder of the universe, proclaiming the dignity of man invoking the aid and favor of Almighty God. In sublime faith and rugged strength, our fathers cried out to the world. 'We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.' Thus our people in a day assumed a place among the nations of the earth.

"One hundred years have passed. We have announced and approved to the world our mission and made our destiny secure. I will not tamely recite our achievements. They are written on every page of our history, and the monuments of our growth and advancement are all about us. We point to the scattered graves of many thousands of our people who have bravely died in defense of our National safety and perpetuity, mutely bearing testimony to their love of country, and to an invincible living host standing ready to enforce our National rights and protect our land.

"The enthusiasm which marks the celebration of the centennial of the inauguration of their first Chief Magistrate shows the popular appreciation of the value of the office which in our plan of government stands above all others for the sovereignty of the people, and is the repository of their trust. Surely such a people can be safely trusted with their free government, and there need be no fear that they have lost the qualities which fit them to be its custodians. If they should wander, they will return to duty in good time. If they should be misled, they will discover the true landmarks none too late for safety, and if they should even be corrupted, they will speedily be found seeking with peace offerings their country's holy altar.

"Let us then have an abiding faith in our people. Let petulance and discontent with popular action disappear before the truth that in any and all circumstances the will of the people, however it may be exercised, is the law of our National existence—the arbiter absolute and unchangeable by which we must abide."

CENTENNIAL POEM.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

Read at the Centennial Celebration, April 30th, 1889.

The Vow of Washington.

The sword was sheathed in April's sun
Lay green the fields by Freedom won;
And several sections, weary of debates,
Joined hands at last and were United States.

* * * *

How felt the land in every part
The strong throb of a Nation's heart,
As its great leader gave, with reverent awe,
His pledge to Union, Liberty and Law;

That pledge the heavens above him heard,
That vow the sleep of centures stirred;
In world-wide wonder listening peoples bent
Their gaze on Freedom's great experiment.

Could it succeed? Of honor sold
And hopes deceived all history told,
Above the wrecks that strewed the mournful past,
Was the long dream of ages true at last?

Thank God the people's choice was just,
The one man equal to his trust,
Wise beyond lore, and without weakness good,
Calm in the strength of flawless rectitude.

His rule of justice, order, peace,
Made possible the world's release;
Taught prince and surf that power is but a trust,
And rule, alone, which serves the ruled, is just.

That Freedom generous is, but strong,
In hate of fraud and selfish wrong,
Pretense that turns her holy truths to lies,
And lawless license masking in her quise,

Land of his love! with one glad voice
Let thy great sisterhood rejoice;
A century's suns o'er thee have risen and set,
And God be praised, we are one nation yet.

And still, we trust, the years to be
Shall prove his hope was destiny,
Leaving our flag with all its added stars
Unrent by faction and unstained by wars!

Lo! where with patient toil he nursed
And trained the new set plant at first,
The widening branches of a stately tree
Stretch from the sunrise to the sunset sea.

And in its broad and sheltering shade,
Sitting with none to make afraid,
Were we now silent, through each mighty limb,
The winds of heaven would sing the praise of him.

Our first and best!—his ashes lie
Beneath his own Virginian sky.
Forgive, forget, O true and just and brave,
The storm that swept across thy sacred grave!

* * * *

One people now, all doubt beyond,
His name shall be our Union-bond;
We lift our hands to heaven, and here and now,
Take on our lips the old Centennial vow.

* * * *

Then let the sovereign millions, where
Our banner floats in sun and air,
From the warm palm-lands to Alaska's cold,
Repeat with us the pledge a century old!

A REAL UNION.

There was no more pleasing and significant feature of the great celebration just concluded than the splendid popular reception given to the troops from the Southern States last Tuesday. It was more than hospitable—it was friendly. It was more than cordial—it was enthusiastic.

Upon several occasions since the close of the war the "blue and the gray" have mingled in civic celebrations. But never before have large bodies of Southern troops marched in company with the militia of the North, each detachment headed by the Governor of its state, and representing at once the local independence of the State and the oneness and supremacy of the Union. It was a happy thought to have the columns from the different states march in the order of the admission of the states into the Union. This felicitous arrangement bridged over the period of the war and took the minds of the participants in and spectators of the pageant back to the original and indissoluble compact.

The "more perfect the Union" whose foundation was one of the chief purposes of the Constitution is surely realized. It has been welded in the fierce heat of war and tempered in the fires of a new and larger patriotism. When the people and the soldiers are thus united, politicians will find little encouragement in attempts to sow discord.—N. Y. World.

The museum of the Arlington-Gregory Hotel in this city, under the never tiring push of the genial proprietor of this popular hotel, Mr. Will Hunter, is rapidly growing to repleteness and gaining, as it well deserves, a reputation second to none in the State. It is impossible to keep up with the "latest additions." Every day brings in some new and rare curiosity to the already innumerable collection. Mr. Hunter is thinking of devoting an entire room to his growing collection.—Goldsboro Argus.

VANCE'S SPEECH

AT THE GUILFORD BATTLE GROUND CELEBRATION.

Thousands Present--Several Other Speeches--The 13 Young Ladies.

On the 25th day of March 1781 General Greene and Lord Cornwallis fought the Battle of Guilford Courthouse about, five miles from Greensboro. This turning battle of the great Revolutionary struggle was celebrated on the site of the battle last Saturday. A large parade, with eight military companies, was headed by thirteen young ladies dressed in the stars and stripes. Senator Vance, the orator of the day, was followed by Gov. Fowle, Justices Smith, Sheperd and Davis, Auditor Sanderlin and others. We are sorry that we can't give Vance's speech in full, but it would make four or five columns in our paper, so we select the following extracts:

MY FELLOW CITIZENS: "From time immemorial that portion of the human racee which has left any record of its actions, has indulged the practice of commemorating the notable events of its history. The method by which this was done was a good test of their civilization. In Genesis, it is recorded that Jacob took the stone upon which his head had rested, whilst the the wondrous vision was displayed to him of the angels ascending and descending, and erected it as a memorial pillar. Again, when the Lord appeared to Jacob when he came out of Padan aram and blessed him and removed the promises which had been made unto Abraham, Jacob set up a pillar of stone in the place as a memorial, and called it Bethel. Twelve stones were likewise set up in commemoration of of the crossing of the river Jordan by the tribes dry shod. The sacred record is full of this method of perpetuating the memory of noted events by the priests, prophets and people of the Jews. The Assyrians and Egyptians did likewise—but in more elaborate manner. In fact the only record by which we trace the history of the East is by deciphering the inscriptions upon their monuments and memorial structures. So enduring as monuments are the great pyramids that mankind has almost forgotten the purpose for which they were erected and by whom. They have actually outlasted all knowledge or tradition concerning them. The Greeks excelled all others perhaps in the number and artistic excellence of their commemorating stones. Not only all great events, but all their great men were thus commended to the attention of posterity, by the erection of temples and statues, which have never yet been surpassed, if indeed, they have been equalled. The Romans copied their custom and their art in this regard. To this day they remind us of the genius and glory of Greece. In very truth,

The silent pillar, lone and gray,
Claims kindred with their sacred day.

Much of the profoundest learning of modern times has been devoted to these exhibitions of Greek art and the Egyptology of the Nile. Thus the progress of art is traced, from the rude unhewn stone of Jacob to the exquisitely chiseled and proportioned column of the Athenian Acropolis, and the wondrous structures of Egypt.

* * * * * *

THEIR WORKS DO FOLLOW THEM.

After all that can be done with marble or granite, the truest monument by which the memory of any event can be perpetuated is to be found in the results. It rarely happens that an event in a people's history is worth the perpetuating in stone, which is not already everlastingly embalmed in the hearts of the people. What monument is required to keep alive the memory of the man who invented the mariners compass, by which the trackless paths of the sea are made as familiar to commerce as our Inter-State highways? What stone is necessary to the inventor of the art of printing; when all science and literature daily, unconsciously hymn his praise? What shaft is needed by the inventor of the steam engine, when the whole earth is full of the works which magnify him? or to the discover of the cotton gin by which the world is clothed? Does the memory of the great physicians whose genius has mitigated human suffering depend upon a pile of stones? Or do the great lawyers to whose acumen we are indebted for the chief liberties of the people need our care? For themselves—no; but for ourselves, to show our gratitude and appreciation, to remind us we, too, can make our lives sublime—yes. Their great achievements are their monuments, for, verily, "their works do follow them;" and any shafts we may erect are rather ours than theirs. They testify not so much of their deeds, as of what lives in our hearts. Philosophy of this is found in the explanation of the wise and witty Cato, the Censor, who said that he had rather have the stranger ask why he had no statue, than to ask why he had one. In the walls of St. Paul, is inserted a tablet on which is written the name of Sir Christopher Wren, its architect, with the words underneath "Lector se monumentum requiris, circumspice." The imposing structure reaching upward with all its lines of beauty and strength, was his monument!

THE FOUNDATION OF AMERICAN LIBERTY.

Should the inquiry be made, what was done at his post in 1781? and where is the monument of results to commemorate it, the answer might well be made in the single word, "Circumspice." Beyond question the foundation of American liberty was laid on this spot, on that noted day in March, 1781. A brief and philosophical consideration or the military situation of these colonies, and of the events which immediately preceded and followed the struggle here, will satisfy any one that the importance of that day's work is not over-rated by this statement."

Then briefly but graphically relating and describing the leading events of that momentous compaign of Lord Cornwallis from Charleston to Greensboro, the Senator asks what is the monument our patriotic soldiers of '76 erected for themselves?

"What then was their work? What is the monument which they that day erected to themselves as seen in the result? Suppose an intelligent stranger were here and he were told to search for that monument by looking around, what would he see? He would behold a free and independent commonwealth, which for more than a hundred years has enjoyed the blessings of liberty and which has advanced steadily without retrogression or anarchy in all the paths of prosperity and civilization. With fifty thousand square miles of territory containing thirty-two millions of acres, of which at least twenty-nine millions are arable and two thousand square miles of which are inland seas, this area extends east and west for six hundred miles in length with an average breath of a hundred and forty. In it is found a general elevation from tide water to the mountain tops of six thousand feet, giving the varieties of climate which are to be found within twenty degrees of latitude north and south. The variety of productions are abundantly commensurate with these varieties of soil and climate. Her forests have always been remarkable, and still are, for their great extent and value, and the treasures within her bosom have barely begun to be explored and exposed. Not to mention smaller streams, this area is traversed by three thousand miles of wate courses of the dignity of rivers, furnishing in their gradual fall from the western highlands into the sea, water power sufficient to turn all the machinery of the world. This happily located land, at once profitable, pleasant and picturesque, containing all the best gifts of God to his creatures, is the home of the children of the men who made it free and established its institutions and laws with a view to the happiness of its people. So well did they build that after more than a century of trial no flaw has been found in the structure, no weakening, no evidence of decay. * * * * *

BUT WHERE IS OUR MONUMENT?

I have said that the fruit of their labors constituted the true monument of our ancestors; that for themselves no other was needed, but that others were needed for us. That for our own sakes we should celebrate and erect shafts in order to demonstrate what was in our own hearts. It has long been a matter of reproach that North Carolina has done so little to per-

France celebrated the centennial of the meeting of the States General, at Versailles, May 5th, 1789. President Carnot made a ringing speech. A would-be Guiteau shot at him while delivering the same, but no damage was done. The event celebrated by France was the beginning of her great revolution; the event celebrated by America, less than a week before, was the happy result of our revolution. We know how to take care of our liberties when once gained. This the French have yet to learn.

Be Ready to Give Statistics About Your Farm.

In 1890 an officer of the Federal Government will call upon every farmer in this State, and expect to receive correct answers to many questions propounded in regard to his farm and operations thereon.

These statistics are very important, and all are interested in them. They will refer almost exclusively to the crops of the present year, 1889. It behooves every farmer, therefore, to make correct answers to all questions propounded by these officers. Among the many questions asked will be the number of acres in the several crops, and the aggregate in cultivation; value of farm implements and also of live stock; cost of fertilizers used; estimated value of all farm productions for the present year, 1889; number of horses, mules, oxen, milch cows, and other cattle, sheep, swine; milk, butter, cheese, etc.

Every one should feel interested in these statistics, and endeavor to have them correct and full, so as to make a creditable showing for our commonwealth, as well as to furnish a large and growing demand for correct statistical information of our agricultural interests, which at present is very inadequate.

MISTAKING BIGNESS FOR GREATNESS.

Bishop Potter in his sermon in St. Pauls Church, New York, on centennial day, April the 30th, said:—

Another enormous difference between this day and that of which it is the anniversary is to be seen in the enormous difference in the nature and influence of the forces that determine our National and political destiny. Then, ideas ruled the hour. Today, there are indeed ideas that rule our hour, but they must be merchantable ideas. The growth of wealth, the prevalence of Luxury, the massing of large material forces which by their very existence are a standing menace to the freedom and integrity of the individual, the infinite swagger of our American speech and manners, mistaking bigness for greatness and sadly confounding gain and godliness—all this is a contrast to the austere simplicity, the unpurchasable integrity of the first days and first men of our Republic, which makes it impossible to reproduce today either the temper or the conduct of our fathers.

THERE ARE FEW SUCH.

In speaking of Mr. Barnum, ex-President Cleveland said: "He was the most unselfish man I ever knew. He gave liberally of his time and money for the benefit of the Democratic party, and never used his position as chairman of the national committee to advance the fortunes of himself or his personal political friends."

Daniel Lamont said: "Mr. Barnum's interest in the success of the party was so great that he denied himself the rest which he should have demanded. When the victory of 1884 was won he was content that his party was in power, and he made no demands and had no favors to press. His death is a great loss to the party."

Buy for Cash and Make Your Own Guano.

Extract from an address delivered by Walter Zimmerman before the Spartanburg County Alliance:

If the organization of the Farmers' Alliance hopes to be a success it must cope upon a cash basis. Do not criticise me until you hear me. I know that many of us have "run an account" so long that we would feel like a fish out of water to run one. I know that when the husband announced at the fireside, "We'll go on the cash system this year, Mary," that the good wife would be a loss to know what had gotten "hold of John," and the children would stare vacantly up the chimney, wondering what was going to happen. But I know two, that at the end of a few years, poor indebted John would soon come proudly up the front walk to meet joyful Mary at the front door, instead of having to find her in the chimney corner, with the long outlines of debt upon her dejected face.

I know that the children would be happier, for they would get a bright smile and a lot of paid for luxury instead of a frown and a piece of 'bocken' candy.

This store account is the judge who pronounces upon the farmer a sentence consigning him to a social and financial hell.

This store account is the rat which gnaws a hole in the farmer's corn crib door; it is the sampler of the farmer's cotton bales, which leaves nothing but bagging and ties; it is the cannon which upturns Jackson's parapet and turns the enemy of life-time debt into our financial, educational, and social New Orleans.

Brethren, if there is one cause of the embarrassed condition of the farmer to day, that cause is the store account balanced with the farmer's interest.

'But how can I pay cash when I haven't got it?' A stout question, but its solution is possible, yea—it is not impracticable. In the first place raise a large part of your own store. As I have intimated, twenty-five dollars will buy the necessities of a one horse farm for one year. Of course this means outside of guano. But let me insist that it is not a sin to raise a crop without guano. Make a large part of your own guano during intervals between work seasons, mind you. Then if you have no cash borrow it. If you pay ten per cent for money it is cheaper during a large part of the year than to pay ten per cent above first cost of goods. Ten per cent above cost of goods does not mean ten per cent per annum. It might mean 1,000 per cent. But the fact is merchants cannot afford to sell on time at ten per cent per annum above first cost.

'But can I borrow money?' We answer that a good lien or mortgage can bring money as well as goods. Especially is this true if an honest, industrious man is behind the mortgage, and I am not troubling myself about how a dishonest man can get money, for he knows well enough himself.

I say that a lien with an honest man behind is gold.

This plan will work. Why? Because there is money to loan, and all the loaners want is collateral. Other Alliance States are working this plan, and what Texas can do, South Carolina can do.

And what Texas and South Carolina can do North Carolina can do. Brethren of Sampson, Bladen and Duplin, will you set the remainder of the State an example in this direction?

Plain History.

Swift's Specific is a simple vegetable compound, prepared from roots gathered freshly from the forest, and contains nothing of the mineral kingdom, or any poisonous substance, or any article at all which comes from the chemist's laboratory. The formula of the remedy was obtained from the Creek Indians in Middle Georgia, by reliable white men, who had witnessed the wonderful cures made by that tribe of Indians, of blood diseases. Mr. Hugh L. Dennard, of Houston county, Ga., began using Swift's Specific in 1829, and continued its use all of his life, and asserted that he had never known it to fail to cure any case of scrofula, blood taint, or contagious blood poison. This testimony has been corroborated every day for years. The present Company was formed in 1879, and have since made known to the world the virtues of Swift's Specific, and today it is sold in every city, town and country store all over America, Great Britain, and many other portions of the world.

I have seen Swift's Specific used, and known of many cases of the worst form of Blood diseases which have been cured by it. I know the proprietors to be gentlemen of the highest type and utmost reliability. I recommend it as a great blood remedy, unequalled by anything that I know of. M. B. WHARTON,
Pastor First Baptist Church,
Montgomery, Alabama.

—Mr. H. J. Carleton, of Warsaw, shipped the first strawberries from that place on the 27 of April. There is upon our table a berry of the Hoffman variety from his farm that is at least 1¼ inches in diameter. But his farm was badly damaged by the hail storm last week.

—Be sure to read our Fayetteville letter this week. We have made arrangements with a gentleman of unusual tact and ability as a newspaper reporter to furnish us each week with the news from the hist oric old town of Fayetteville and the surrounding country.

—The foundation for J. E. Royal's new brick store has been laid and the walls are now being run up. It will be about the same size as the one he now occupies. When completed, this double brick front will be a considerable addition to that side of the square.

—The frame of the new Methodist Church was raised Monday. The steeple will be at the S. E. corner, rising from the ground. The entrance will be through the steeple. There is a lecture room attached on the N. W. side and a nich in back of building for pulpit. We would judge that it will be a handsome edifice when finished.

—Never before have we presented to our readers in a single issue a finer array of oratory than today. We give extracts from the speech of the beloved Vance at the Guilford Battle Ground Celebration, from the speech of Chauncey M. Depew at the Washington Centennial, and the eloquent remarks of Ex-President Cleveland at the Centennial Banquet. Such speeches you will seldom have a chance to read.

—Capt. R. G. Holmes and Mr. Knight, conductor and engineer respectively on the W. & W. Railroad, as an evidence of their esteem, for Dr. B. F. Marable, presented him with a gold headed cane. The presentation was made by Mr. A. F. Johnson in a very happy and appropriate speech at the residence of J. R. Beaman, Esq., on the evening of the 28th of April.

—Mr. W. A. Johnson shipped a lot of rice last week. The returns stated that the low price which he received was not due to the market, but to the character of the rice. The consignee stated that if the rice had been properly harvested it would have brought 40 per cent more. Farmers, take notice of this and don't, by carelessness, lose half the value of a crop after it is almost ready for market.

—Mrs. Dr. A. Holmes has kindly handed to us a copy of a very old paper, which at this time, is especially and peculiarly interesting. It is the Ulster County Gazette and was printed January 4th, 1800, in Ulster county, New York. The paper is in mourning for George Washington, and gives an account of his death, funeral and burial. You will all remember that Washington died at Mount Vernon, December 14th, 1779, but the sad news of the infant Republic's great loss did not reach Ulster county till January 4th. Sorry we haven't space to tell you more about this interesting paper this week.

A. F. JOHNSON IS BETTER.

Though Weak and not yet out of Danger.

Mr. Johnson's attack of physical and nervous prostration was brought on by sheer over work. To superintend a mercantile business the size of Mr. Johnson's would amply engage the time of one; to start from the beginning, erect buildings and start to work all the machinery (nearly all of which was made to order) of the Carolina Veneer Works would be a big task for any man; and to transact the business, as cashier, of the Clinton Loan Association would be plenty for a man of Mr. Johnson's delicate constitution. But just think of him doing all these, sitting up often till 2 o'clock in the morning, and it is rather a surprise that the attack did not come sooner.

There could be no better evidence o the great esteem in which Mr. Johnson is held, and the appreciation for his efforts to better the condition of the town and county, than the universal fear for the possible result of his attack and the great anxiety and soticitude of every one for his recovery.

The physicians hope, with careful management, he will be up in a week or two.

"CITY FATHERS."

A Close Election---New Ticket Successful--Hogs Banished from the Streets.

The election for town commissioners Monday was close and interesting, though quiet. There was also a special election held to decide whether or not stock should be allowed on the streets. The vote was overwhelming against the nuisance. The vote for commissioners was as follows:

NEW TICKET.		OLD TICKET.
W. S. Thomson,	71	R. H. Hubbard,	67
J. A. Ferrell,	77	W. H. Stetson,	63
W. A. Johnson,	74	W. B. Stewart,	63
J. H. Stevens,	77	J. E. Royal,	61
T. H. Partrick,	76	J. B. Bodenhamer,	59

The above was not a full vote, and even if it was it would but poorly represent the population of our town, which has long since out-grown its corporate limits.

We noticed that the negro vote was much sought after during the day. Why is this necessary? It need not be so. Why not hold a Democratic mass meeting in the Courthouse a few days before the election and nominate a ticket? Then the choice of the town's best citizens would always rule. With the present arrangement if the white vote is nearly evenly divided, the Radical element has the balance of power.

CLINTON TRUCKING.

No Place Earlier North of Wilmington---Let Those Who Doubt It Give Dates and Figures.

The Fayetteville Observer clipped from our issue of several weeks since the following item, adding a line by way of comment:

"Capt. Partrick is shipping asparagus every day. So far he has shipped about 500 bunches. His last returns were $6.00 per dozen.—Clinton Caucasian.

"Why, brother, the truckers in and around Fayetteville have been shipping asparagus two or three weeks."

For the information of the Observer we will state that Capt. Partrick shipped asparagus on the 29th of March, and had been eating it at his table at least a week before this. Last year he shipped on the 25th of March. Now, brother, give the date of the earliest shipment from your place. The same gentlemen had ripe strawberries on his farm on April 21st. While we are on this subject we might say that Clinton has probably the earliest season north of Wilmington. Last year J. S. Bizzell, clerk of Superior Court, had ripe grapes on the 26th of June, and Treasurer, J. R. Beaman, had fields of wheat all headin, out Monday. Now can Fayetteville beat this?

All Through the County.

What Sampsonians are Doing and Saying.

☞Send us the news from your township for this column.☜

TURKEY.

There was a violent storm of wind, rain and hail in this section on the 1st inst,, during which fences and trees were blown down, corn beaten into the ground and gardens almost destroyed. Over 5,000 panels of fence were blown down and hundreds of dollars worth of timber ruined in a few seconds.

LITTLE COHARIE.

We are glad to see our blacksmith, Mr. J. B. Owen, who has been very sick for the past week, out on the streets of our village again.

A man living in this township sheared his sheep in the latter part of March in order to save a nice lot of wool, and the cold came and he had to wrap them up in quilts and blankets in order to save them.

We sympathize with a young man of another county who came to see his girl in this section, and unfortunately turned over the table and destroyed all of the old lady's dishes.

PEUG.

SOUTH CLINTON.

Quite a storm, supposed to be the same at whose hands Warsaw fared so roughly, passed over the place of Mr. M. M. Killett last week, blew down much of his fence, and several large oaks in his yard, one of which fell on his dining room, knocking down two chiminies and damaging the roof considerably.

NORTH CLINTON.

Mrs. Alice Fitchett, who has been visiting her brother, Captain Owen Chesnutt and her sister, Mrs. J. W. Boney, of this township, returned to her home in South Carolina last week. When she saw THE CAUCASIAN she was so much pleased with its appearance and matter that she decided to subscribe.

WESTBROOKS.

The second quarterly meeting of the Newton Grove circuit will convene on the 11th and 12th instants. Presiding Elder, Dr. W. S. Black, will be present.

Mr. W. J. Gregory is doing business at Rosin Hill.

Mr. M. B. Williams left for Georgia last Thursday, where he will sell fruit trees for the Westbrook nursery at Faison.

Mr. Editor, we wish to compliment you upon your paper. THE CAUCASIAN is now the favorite in this section and is always the first asked for and read. BURKET.

Duplin Items.

Mr. R. C. Broadhurst, clerk of the Court, is gradually improving.

Messrs. W. R. Allen of Goldsboro bar and D. B. Nicholson of Clinton bar were in town Monday on professional business.

The cyclone did considerable damage in the Northern part of Kenansville township. Messrs. J. B. Carr and D. M. Pearsall were among the heaviest sufferers.

Mr. Willie Hill of this this town shipped Monday 3 crates of strawberries, had it not been for the cyclone he would have shipped at least 30 crates.

Mr. Chas. Hussey has moved from Deep Bottom to Warsaw and entered the mercantile business with Mr. Hines under the firm name of Hines & Hussey,

Mrs. Hattie Moore, the esteemed wife of H. C. Moore, Register of Deeds of this county, died last Sunday. She was stricken with paralysis last Friday and lingered only two days. The deceased was agee about 50 years.

Personals.

Senator Robinson, of Duplin, is in town.

Prof. B. F. Grady and wife are in town.

Mr. French McQueen was in town for a few days this week.

Mr. H. L. Cook of the Fayetteville bar was in town last week.

Commissioner of Agriculture, Robinson, was in town last week.

Misses Carrie and Minnie Johnson have returned from Wilmington.

D. B. Nicholson, Esq., was in Warsaw on professional business Monday.

F. R. Cooper, Esq., of the Clinton bar, is attending Fayetteville court this week.

Rep. W. E. Stevens is attending the meeting of the State Board of Agriculture in Raleigh.

Mr. T. H. McKoy, Jr., took a flying business trip via Fayetteville and Greensboro last week.

Mr. N. L. Anderson is just back from Princeton. He will graduate from that institution next year.

Mr. Roscower, editor of the Goldsboro Headlight, paid our town a visit last week and in the meantime gave THE CAUCASIAN a call.

Bev. Dr. Carmichael, of Wilmington, has been spending a few days in our town. Dr. Carmichael is chaplain of the 2nd Regiment, N. G. State Guard.

Notice F. A. Ex. Co., Meet May 18th.

CUMBERLAND NEWS.

3,000 People Attending the Great Pearson Meetings—A $40,000 Cotton Factory—Jefferson Davis to Come on A Special car next November—Progressive and Beautiful Clinton.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., May 6th, 1889.

Mr. Editor: Your correspondent recently paid a visit to Clinton and upon suggestion has decided to write a short letter to THE CAUCASIAN, and tell its readers of a few pleasant impressions of your beautiful town and the good county of Sampson. We saw many improvements in Clinton since our last visit, but discovered that to see Clinton in all its beauty, Spring is the time. The magnificent shade trees, which line the streets, and the lovely flower gardens which adorn the yards of many of the residences make Clinton a veritable little haven of peace, and pleasure. In addition to the natural beauty, the town is fortunate in having a good back country full of thrifty and progressive farmers, who do their trading with its clever and live merchants. We could write a paper full of Clinton and its hospitable people, but THE CAUCASIAN would doubtless object to it so we will close this part of the letter by saying we mean every word we say about the place.

The news in Fayetteville now seems to be all about the great evangelist, R. G. Pearson, who commenced a series of meetings in this city last night. The meetings are held in the Pearson Tabernacle, on Gillespie street, which was constructed specially for these meetings at a cost of $1,100.00, contributed by the people. The building has a seating capacity for 3,000 people, is lighted by five electric lights of 1,200 candle power each, and another one on the outside. A choir of 100 trained voices lead the singing. At the services last night over 3,000 people were in the building and many could not get in. Mr. Pearson preached a sermon of power and earnestness. There is a magnetism about him which seems to draw you to him.

Many strangers are in the city attending the meetings, and it is said that thousands will be here during this and next week. More about it in our next.

Next Friday is Memorial Day. Mr. E. W. Pou, of Smithfield, will deliver the address and Rev. T. P. Barclay, the new Presbyterian minister from Kentucky, to be Chaplain. The military companies of Bennettsville, S. C., Maxton and Lumber Bridge, will participate in addition to our own excellent F. I. L. I. The Maxton band furnishes the music. The procession will start from the Cumberland House, on Hay street, and then to the Confederate Cemetery.

The Fayetteville Wooden-ware Co. is shipping water and well buckets by the hundred. Capt. S. C. Rankin, the President, has just returned from a trip through the South taking orders.

The cotton mills are running on full time and making weekly shipments. This mill with a capital stock of $40,000.00, represents to a large extent the savings of the young men of the city. Mr. John P. Morgan, the President, being only thirty years old.

The Grand Lodge Independent Order of Odd Fellows of North Carolina convenes here on the 14th inst. in annual session. The Order here is in a flourishing condition and is preparing to give their brethren a handsome reception.

The 30th of April, centennial day, was appropriately observed here by services in the different churches at 9 o'clock A. M.

Cumberland Superior Court convened this morning with Judge Gilmer presiding. It is two weeks' term for the trial of civil cases, with the exception of the first three days which are devoted to the criminal docket for the purpose of clearing the jail.

The C. F. & Y. V. Railway Company are turning out a large number of cars at the shops here. The building of the iron bridge across the Cape Fear has not commenced. The work of building five large piers however is progressing satisfactorily, one being completed and another nearly through. Seventy-five men are at work.

President J. A. Gray, of the C. F. and Y. V. Railway Company has tendered the use of his elegant private car to the committee to go out to bring ex-President Jefferson Davis here in November next, to be chief orator of the centennial celebration which will take place on November 21st. It is said that Mr. Davis will come. We hope so, as we would like to help do honor to this great chieftian. The celebration will be on a grand style. Committees are already at work making preparations. If Mr. Davis comes 50,000 people will be here.

Invitations.

We are indebted to the Marshals of Davidson College for an invitation to attend the fifty-second annual commencement. Col. John N. Staples delivers the annual address.

The commencement exercises of Fremont Institute will be held on May 29th. Rev. T. H. Pritchard, D. D., will deliver the address. Prof. W. H. Hand is Principal of this flourishing school.

A very neat ticket, announcing the closing exercises of Nahunta Academy, May 21st and 22d, is upon our table with the compliments of J. H. Moore, Principal. James H. Brinson, Esq., of New Berne, delivers the address.

petuate in stone her love for her sages and heroes. The day when the foot of the first Anglo-Saxon was placed upon American soil is known historically, but the spot where the colony of the great and splendid Raleigh landed is unmarked by a single memento. This genesis of the mightiest revelation in the history of nations, was upon North Carolina soil, yet we have left neglected both the time and place. The men of the Mecklenburg Declaration have as yet no commemoration Cross Creek and Moore's Creek are yet without a stone. The battle of the Regulators, where the first blood was shed for real liberty in America is unmarked and unsignified to the traveller. Davie and Davidson and Shelby, Severe, Cleveland, McDowell, Lillington, Harnett, Moore, all sleep in graves hallowed by patriotism, but unknown save only to private affection. We do not even sufficiently guard the traditions of their reputation, but leave incompetent or partial historians to slur their deeds or scandalize their memories. This criminal negligence continues to this day.

* * * * *

THERE IS HOPE YET.

But there is hope for North Carolina yet. Sixteen years before the birth of our Savior there was born in the forests of Germany a child who was called Arminius; or as the German the German peasants loved to term him, Herrman, prince of Chensci. He conceived the idea of delivering his country from the Romans, then in the zenith of their power. Not far from the time when our Savior was teaching on the shores of the Gallilee and healing the sick, this patriotic German decoyed a Roman Army into the morasses of his native country and slaughtered it with such an overwhelming slaughter as rendered it impossible for the great Augustus ever again to reconquer his country. Nineteen hundred years thereafter the German people erected a statue in his honor. His example demonstrates that there is gratitude in mankind, though the proof was undoubtedly slow in coming. I trust that the people of North Carolina will not wait so long to do honor to those who served them and died for them in their hour of need.

The Women Praise B. B. B.

The suffering of women certainly awakens the sympathy of every true philanthropist. Their best friend, however, is B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm.) Send to Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga., for proofs.

H. L. Cassidy, Kennesaw, Ga., writes: "Three bottles of B. B. B. cured my wife of scrofula."

Mrs. R. M. Laws, Zalaba, Fla., writes: "I have never used anything to equal B. B. B."

Mrs. C. H. Gay, Rocky Mount, N. C., writes: "Not a day for 15 years was I free from headache. B. B. B. entirely relieved me. I feel like another person."

Jas. W. Lancaster, Hawkinsville, Ga., writes: "My wife was in bad health for eight years. Five doctors and many patent medicines had done her no good. Six bottles of B. B. B. cured her."

Miss S. Tomlinson, Atlanta, Ga., says: "For years I have suffered with rheumatism, caused by kidney trouble and indigestion. I also was feeble and nervous. B. B. B. relieved me at once, although several other medicines had failed."

Rev. J. M. Richardson, Clarkston, Ark., writes: "My wife suffered twelve years with rheumatism and female complaint. A lady member of my church had been cured by B. B. B. She persuaded my wife to try it, who now says there is nothing like B. B. B., as it quickly gave her relief."

STRAY BITS OF LIFE,

As Pictured by the Press.

Even a small barber may be called a strapping fellow.

The careless servant is a great piece-maker in the household.

"Riches take unto themselves wings and fly away," said the teacher. "What kind of riches is meant?" And the smart boy said he "reckoned they must be ostriches."

Roseleaf: "This is the very day to ask papa's consent, Arthur." Arthur: "Why? Is he in a good humor?" Bertha: "No, he's frantic over my dressmaker's bill, and will let you take me off his hands at once."

Joseyboy: "Ah, there you are kissing your poodle again, Miss Travis. Why can't you distribute your favors?" Miss Travis (archly): "Because, Mr. Joseyboy, there is such a difference in puppies."—Burlington Free Press.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses, from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucus surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for a case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by druggists at 75 cents.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

If salt is sprinkled around the the edges of a carpet when on the floor, it will keep away moths.

Silk must never be ironed, as the heat takes all life out of it, and makes it seem stringy and flabby; but if you wish to press out old bits of silk and ribbon for fancy work, use an iron only moderately hot and place two thicknesses of paper between that and the silk.—North Carolina Farmer.

To cure a felon, fill a tumbler with equal parts of fine salt and ice; mix well. Sink the finger in the centre and allow it to remain until it is nerly frozen and numb, then withdraw it, and when sensation is restored renew the operation four or five times, when it will be found the disease will be destroyed. This must be done before puss is formed.

"A New Nork physician says excessive gum chewing ruins the evesight, makes the face wrinkled, and brings on chronic dyspepsia."

Is not this enough to make make girls quit it?

Give More Thought to Dress.

Too often does life degenerate into mere animal existence. Home is obliterated or becomes simply a place where a man and a woman and an indefinite number of children eat and sleep. This condition is by no means a necessary accompaniment of farm life, and while I would not hold the wife and mother wholly responsible, it exists, I do affirm that a woman of tact and sense can do much towards preventing it. The home is the woman's realm, and she can make it largely what she pleases, and while dress and personal appearance are not all, they are much—so much that fifteen minutes a day spent in their intelligent will pay heavier dividends in comfort and happiness than almost any other fifteen minutes in the day. —Ohio Farmer.

SOME OF THE THINGS EDITORS HAVE TO DO.

No Wonder They Make Mistakes.

[From the Sauk Rapids (Minn.) Sentinel.]

We apologize for mistakes made in all former issues and say they were inexcusable, as all an editor has to do is to hunt news, and clean the rollers, and set type, and sweep the floor, and pen short items, and fold papers, and write wrappers, and make the paste, and mail the papers, and talk to visitors, and distribute type, and carry water, and saw wood, and read the proofs, and correct the mistakes, and hunt the shears to write editorials, and dodge the bills, and dun delinquents, and take cussings from the whole force, and tell our subscribers that we need money. We say that we've no business to make mistakes while attending to these little matters, and getting our living on gopher-tail soup, flavored with imagination, and wearing old shoes and collar, and a patch on our pants, obliged to turn a smiling countenance to the man who tells us our paper isn't worth $2 anyhow, and that he could make a better one with his eyes shut.

Some of the above troubles do not apply to us, notwithstanding our leanness, though we have many things to contend with not mentioned above.

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED.

TO THE EDITOR—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their express and post office address. Respectfully,
